Atlanta - Sadie G. Mays Health & Rehabilitation Center recently welcomed three new members to its board of directors. The new board members are Patrise Perkins-Hooker, Esq., Rimani Kelsey-Rogers, MD, and Edward M. Curtis, DPT. Sadie G. Mays Board Chair, Samuel W. Bacote III said of the new members, "We are pleased to welcome these stellar individuals to our board. They bring an unmatched skillset that will surely help our facility as we embark on our 75th Anniversary year and beyond."

Patrise Perkins-Hooker, the former County Attorney for Fulton County and the first African American President of the State of Georgia Bar Association, brings a wealth of experience and contacts to her new role. In her "retirement," Atty. Perkins-Hooker serves as Administrative Partner with Johnson & Freeman, LLC. With roots in Atlanta, she says "Sadie Mays has always been there for those in need of quality care who can't afford it. I am looking forward to working with the team to continue improving the quality of care for those who seek our services."

Originally from Columbus, Ohio, Rimani Kelsey-Rogers, MD is a respected family medicine physician who served in several leadership capacities in the U.S. Army and Army Reserves for 7+ years. She currently runs her own medical consulting practice, Kelsey Imhotep Wellness, Inc., which provides contract medical consultation and care to both military and civilian entities. Dr. Kelsey is happy to join the Sadie G. Mays board because she says, "My passion is caring for people from birth to transition, as well as ensuring the longevity of critical community health care organizations for generations to come."

Edward M. Curtis is a highly respected, nursing home administrator and physical therapist. He recently retired after 21 years as an administrator with several companies which operated nursing homes across the U.S. Attracted by the warm weather, he recently moved to the Atlanta area from Baltimore, MD and looks forward to volunteering with programs that are supporting the community. “It appears that Sadie G. Mays has been an important pillar of this community and I would like to be part of an organization that is that engaging and that impactful.”

Located in northwest Atlanta, the award-winning 206-bed skilled nursing facility was founded in 1947 by Sadie Gray Mays, social worker, professor, and wife of Morehouse College’s illustrious President Emeritus, Dr. Benjamin E. Mays. It was one of the first nursing homes in Georgia where patients could receive quality nursing care with dignity, regardless of race or circumstance. Today, this award-winning center provides short-term rehabilitation, long-term nursing care, hospice, and respite care. Sadie G. Mays is accredited by The Joint Commission, Medicare, Medicaid, Veterans Administration, and the State of Georgia. For more information, visit www.sgmays.org or call (404) 794-2477.
